Report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review*

Japan

Addendum

Views on conclusions and/or recommendations, voluntary commitments and replies presented by the State under review

* The present document was not edited before being sent to the United Nations translation services.
Japan has carefully reviewed the 217 recommendations received during its Universal Periodic Review (UPR) on 14 November 2017 and is pleased to provide the following responses. In summary, Japan “supports” 145 recommendations (classified as “Accept to follow up”), and “notes” 72 recommendations (classified as “Partially accept to follow up”, “note” and “not accept”). Japan will continue to follow up the recommendations which Japan has accepted to follow up, including recommendations for which Japan has been already working.

161.1. Note.

Japan’s position is stated in the national report (paras.87 - 90) (A/HRC/WG.6/28/JPN/1).

161.2. Accept to follow up.

161.3. Partially accept to follow up.

Japan's position is stated in the interactive dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the UPR (para. 147). Japan will consider concluding the human rights treaties except for the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

161.4. Not accept.

Japan's position is stated in the interactive dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the UPR (para. 147).

161.5. Not accept. See 161.4.

161.7. Not accept. See 161.4.

161.9. Partially accept to follow up. See 161.3.

161.27. Accept to follow up.
161.28. Accept to follow up.

161.29. Accept to follow up.

161.30. Note.

In Japan, equality under the law, including prohibition of race discrimination, is provided for in the Constitution. However, as for the ratification of the Convention, it is necessary to make a careful consideration in light of actual situations in Japan.

161.31. Not accept.

Although Japan shares the goal of the total elimination of nuclear weapons enshrined in this treaty, this treaty lacks consideration of the reality of severe security environment and fails to obtain support from nuclear weapon states and non-nuclear weapon states that are facing nuclear threat. In light of the difference in the basic approach to elimination of nuclear weapons, Japan does not have a plan to sign this treaty.

161.46. Accept to follow up.

161.47. Accept to follow up.

161.48. Partially accept to follow up.

Although Japan continues its efforts to ensure children’s rights, Japan currently does not have any plans to establish “another institution to advocate the rights of the child”.

161.49. Accept to follow up.

161.50. Accept to follow up.

161.51. Accept to follow up.

161.52. Accept to follow up.

161.85. Accept to follow up.

161.86. Not accept.

There are no state policy and regulations which condone discrimination against and harassment of Koreans in Japan.

161.87. Not accept.

Japan’s position is stated in the interactive dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (paras. 157–159).

161.88. Not accept.

Japan’s position is stated in the interactive dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (paras. 154, 157–159).
161.89. Note. See 161.88.

Japan has no intention to treat the so-called comfort woman issue in the National Curriculum Standards, which are general standards for schools to formulate their own curricula rather than indicating specifics contents.

With regard to history education, Japan’s position is stated in the addendum of the report of the Working Group on the 2nd UPR of Japan (A/HRC/22/14/Add.1) (para. 147.158. b).

Japan’s position on the issue of the death penalty is that this should be examined based on domestic public opinion. The majority of the Japanese people consider the death penalty to be unavoidable in the case of extremely heinous crimes and therefore Japan currently does not have any plans to establish a forum to discuss the death penalty system.

We provide support to victims and their families appropriately, regardless of whether or not a moratorium is introduced.

161.102. Not accept. See 161.4.
161.103. Not accept. See 161.4.
161.106. Not accept. See 161.4.

In Japan, the right to appeal is broadly recognized under the three-tier-trial system. Considering that many appeals have actually been made in death penalty cases and there is a problem to impose a burden of appealing on those who do not intend to appeal, Japan believes we should not introduce a system of mandatory appeal in cases where the death penalty has been handed down.

161.108. Not accept.

In Japan, a defendant has the right to appeal and the death penalty would not be carried out until the sentence becomes final and binding. We carefully take into account elements such as the absence of grounds for retrial, and only if these conditions are met, the order for execution will be placed. If we introduce a system of guaranteeing the suspension of the sentence for retrial, it will be inappropriate because as long as the inmate sentenced to death repeats the action for retrial, we will never be able to execute the sentence.

161.111. Note.

Japan’s position is stated in the interactive dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the UPR (para. 148).

161.134. Note.

Japan does not conduct any activities that correspond to religious profiling.

161.135. Note.

Japan believes there is no need to reform the current detention system.

Japan’s position is stated in the Interactive Dialogue as recorded in the Draft Report of the Working Group on the UPR (paras. 14 and 153). Under the current system, the detained person has the right to access an attorney immediately. Japan detains suspects after rigorous judicial review and the period of pre-trial detention is short. Japan makes various efforts to protect the human rights of suspects.

161.138. Note.

About the public pension system, while ensuring fiscal sustainability as the top priority, Japan will continue to consider necessary review in order to secure benefit levels that account for future generations.
