No official of the Government or persons exercising any public authority within Japan shall enter the premises to perform any official duties therein except with the consent of, and under the conditions agreed to by, the Executive Secretary or at his/her request. Such consent may be assumed in case of fire or other emergencies requiring prompt protective action.

2. The property and assets of the Commission, wherever located and by whomsoever held, shall be immune from search, seizure, confiscation, sequestration, expropriation and any other form of interference, whether administrative, judicial or legislative, except with the consent of and under the conditions agreed to by the Executive Secretary.

2. While the Commission will not, as a general rule, claim exemption from excise duties and from taxes on the sale of movable and immovable property which form part of the price to be paid, nevertheless when the Commission is making important purchases for the official use of property on which such duties and taxes have been charged or are chargeable, the Government will, whenever possible, make appropriate administrative arrangements for the remission or return of the amount of duty or tax.
Article 8

1. All official communications directed to the Commission, or to any of its staff members at the Secretariat, and all official outward communications of the Commission, by whatever means or in whatever form transmitted, shall be immune from censorship and from any other form of interception or interference with their privacy. Should there be reasonable cause to believe that apparently official communications contain unlawful or dangerous materials, they may be opened by the Japanese authorities in the presence of any of staff members, provided, however, that no such staff members need be present if those materials appear to present an immediate physical danger.

2. In respect of its official communications, the Commission shall, in the territory of Japan and in so far as may be compatible with any international conventions, regulations and arrangements to which Japan is a party, enjoy treatment not less favorable than that accorded by the Government to any other international organization in the matter of priorities, rates and taxes for post and telecommunications.

When a person has been appointed as one of the staff members, the Commission shall in each case and without delay notify the Government of the name of the person, and his/her level and post in the Commission and the names of his/her dependants, together with other relevant information. The Commission shall likewise notify the Government, when a person so appointed ceases to be one of the staff members, of the date of the cessation.

2. The Government shall not be obliged to extend to any person the privileges and immunities provided by this Agreement until the Government has received the notification under paragraph 1 of this Article with regard to the person concerned.

3. The Government shall, on receipt of such notification, furnish staff members with an identification card bearing the photograph of the holder. This card shall serve to identify the holder in relation to all Japanese authorities.

3. Should the Government consider that an abuse of any of these privileges or immunities has occurred, the Executive Secretary shall, upon request, consult with the Government to determine whether any such abuse has occurred. If such consultation fails to achieve a result satisfactory to the Executive Secretary and to the Government, the matter shall be determined in accordance with the procedure set out in Article 15.
Article 14
Waiver of Immunities

1. The Executive Secretary has the right and the duty to waive any immunity accorded to staff members other than himself/herself under this Agreement when he/she considers that such immunity is impeding the course of justice and when it is possible to dispense with it without prejudice to the interests of the Commission.

2. The Commission may waive the immunities accorded to the Executive Secretary under this Agreement.

Article 15

1. Where the Commission enters into contracts in Japan with natural or juridical persons (other than contracts concluded in accordance with staff regulations), these contracts shall, at the request of the other party or parties thereto, include an arbitration clause whereby any disputes arising out of the interpretation or execution of the contracts may at the request of either party be submitted to private arbitration.

2. The Commission shall make provision for appropriate modes of settlement of:

   (a) disputes of a private law character other than those arising from contracts specified in paragraph 1 of this Article;

   (b) disputes involving staff members who by reason of his/her official position enjoys immunity, if such immunity has not been waived in accordance with Article 14.
3. Any dispute between the Commission and the Government concerning the interpretation or application of this Agreement or any question affecting the relationship between the Commission and the Government which is not settled by negotiation or other agreed modes of settlement shall be referred to a tribunal of three arbitrators: one to be appointed by the Minister, one to be appointed by the Commission and the third, who shall be the chairman of the tribunal, to be appointed by the first two arbitrators. Should the first two arbitrators fail to agree upon the third within six months following their appointment, the third arbitrator shall be appointed by the President of the International Court of Justice at the request of the Government or the Commission. The decisions of the tribunal shall be final and binding upon the Government and the Commission.

2. Without prejudice to the privileges and immunities accorded by this Agreement, it is the duty of the Commission and of all persons enjoying such privileges and immunities to observe the laws and regulations of Japan.

Article 17
Amendment

At the request either of the Government or of the Commission, consultations shall take place with respect to amendment of this Agreement. Any amendment shall be made by mutual agreement.
Article 18
