

DIPLOMACY

Vol.91, May/ Jun. 2025

Contents of Features

- 75 Round-Table: TICAD9: Perspectives on Africa's Future
Africa's presence in the international community is growing. Having built up business in Africa over many years, will Japan be able to resolve diverse issues and take the next step forward?
Jun Karube (Toyota Tsusho Corporation) / Keichi Shirato (Ritsumeikan University) / Toshihiko Horiuchi (Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan)
- 88 Martial Law and Impeachment in South Korea "End of Democracy"
South Korea is facing political turmoil, and the political system under the South Korean constitution is deepening the divisions. Analyzing this issue in conjunction with the Korean political history.
Kan Kimura (Kobe University)
- 96 In Memoriam: Pope Francis
Saho Matsumoto (Nihon University)
- 100 Indo-Pak Military Clash: Smoldering flash point after ceasefire
The background to the sudden ceasefire following military clashes triggered by mutual retaliation for terrorist attacks in April, and the structure of the crisis.
Ryohei Kasai (Gifu Women's University)
- 104 AI's International Challenges and Japanese Diplomacy
Discussions on international governance are urgently needed to ensure the safe and reliable utilization of AI. Japan should contribute to the discussions through initiatives such as the Hiroshima AI Process.
Takeshi Akahori (Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan)
- 110 Myanmar Earthquake: Domestic affairs in Turmoil
Humanitarian crisis continues in Myanmar after earthquake. Conflicts between the military government, the pro-democracy NUG, and ethnic minority armed groups are deep-rooted. The influence of China complicates the situation.
Noriyuki Osada (Kyushu University)
- 116 FOCUS◎ Challenges for Japan's Postwar Diplomacy and The 70th Anniversary Statement
The author, who was involved in the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II and the security legislation, analyzes the progress of postwar Japan. In the field of security, Japan should actively participate in maintaining order.
Shinichi Kitaoka (University of Tokyo)
- 122 Putin's "Victory Ceremony Speech" and Ukraine
A comparison of Putin's speech at the 80th anniversary of the victory over Germany and the Soviet Union and at the time of the invasion of Ukraine shows a change in direction and level of condemnation.
Yoko Tateishi (Doshisha University)
- 128 China's Foreign Behavior Becoming "Janus"
In its response to The second Trump administration, China is responding with two faces. A defender of the international order or a challenger to the U.S.-centered alliance.
Yasuyuki Sugiura (The National Institute for Defense Studies)
- 134 70 Years after the Bandung Conference: Japan and a Starting Point of the Global South
Taizo Miyagi (Chuo University)
- 140 In Memoriam: Joseph Nye, Former U.S. Assistant Secretary of Defense
Akihiko Tanaka (University of Tokyo)
- 142 In Memoriam: Richard Armitage, Former U.S. Deputy Secretary of State
Michael Green (University of Sydney)

Special Feature :

The World Seeking Independence from the U.S.

6 Round-Table Japan's Diplomacy and International Order Overcoming Dependence on the United States

The international community is "moving away from the U.S.". What kind of order lies in wait? (or What lies ahead for international order?) Considering the future direction of Japan's diplomacy.

Masayuki Tadokoro (International University of Japan) /Koji Tsuruoka (Former Ambassador to the United Kingdom)
Yoshiko Kojima (University of Tokyo)

18 Managing Trump's Devaluated Foreign Policy

Trump diplomacy is based on unilateralism and prioritizes economic interests. Alliances are being reorganized in a hierarchical manner. On security, little attention is paid to China and Russia.

Satoru Mori (Keio University)

26 Trump Tariff Negotiations and the Future of the International Trade System

Will tariff negotiations with the Deal-Driven Trump administration be successful? Japan should lead WTO reform from the standpoint of upholding the rule of law.

Tsuyoshi Kawase (Sophia University)

32 Europe's Shift from U.S. Dependence and Constraints thereof

Due to a psychological backlash against the Trump administration, Europe is inclined toward independence from the U.S. Though, achieving this would be difficult.

Louis Simon (Vrije Universiteit Brussel)

38 Zelensky and Trump's "Moment of Truth"

No direct negotiations between the presidents of Ukraine and Russia. What are the intentions of the leaders of Ukraine, Russia, and the U.S. and what are the steps toward a ceasefire?

Takashi Kurai (Former Ambassador to Ukraine)

44 Taiwan: Public Opinion Swayed by Trump's Re-election

Taiwanese public opinion's trust in the United States has always been shaken. The impact of the second Trump administration on Taiwan is analyzed from public opinion polls.

Takeshi Watanabe (Kyorin University)

50 The Australian Labor Party's Victory in the General Election and "Plan B"

Ruling Party Wins Federal Parliamentary Election. The Australian people rejected the division. Will the diplomatic balance between the U.S. and China change?

Takayuki Nagano (Dokkyo University)

56 Canada's Diplomacy: The Indo-Pacific Shift as a Rebalance

The diplomatic agenda of the new Carney administration is to repair relations with the U.S. and diversify diplomatic ties. Cooperation with the Indo-Pacific countries is crucial.

Jonathan Berkshire Miller (The Macdonald-Laurier Institute)

62 Brazil's trading is "moving away from the developed world"

The Brazil economy is robust, but growth is slowing due to inflation and an aging population. Will trade with emerging countries expand under Trump's tariffs?

Hiroshi Morikawa (Institute for International Monetary Affairs)

FOCUS◎ New Strategies for African Development

68 Political Dynamics of African Development

The economic market in Africa is expanding, and many countries, including Russia, China, and developing countries, are deepening their involvement. How does this dynamic work, and what are the challenges for TICAD 9?

Mitsugi Endo (University of Tokyo)