3. Voices from Participants (excerpt)

♦ Ecuador, Working youth

It was a wonderful experience to learn how Japan has worked with Latin America and the Caribbean countries to bring benefits to several million people.

♦ Uruguay, Working youth

I think the "Juntos!!" program is a great opportunity to learn about Japanese culture and to strengthen Japan's diplomatic relations with Latin America. The online Pre-exchange Program was very useful and fulfilling. I had a good understanding of the current diplomatic plan being implemented and its importance. I am very happy and grateful to be able to participate in this Juntos!! program.

◆ Bolivia, Working youth

The lectures by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Chamber of Commerce and Industry were a very good experience for me, and above all, I was very happy to learn about the situation of the Chamber of Commerce in Japan and to exchange opinions with other participants from the Latin America region.

◆ Argentine, Working youth

I have a great experience participating in this program. I'm learning many aspects of Japan that I didn't know about.

♦ Bolivia, Working youth

I feel even stronger that I want to go to Japan and interact with Japanese culture and people. I think it is a wonderful program because it allows me to communicate with people not only in Japan but also in Latin America and the Caribbean region and broaden my knowledge.

◆ Uruguay, Working youth

I think it is the best form of exchange before visiting Japan, where you can learn about Japanese culture, the current situation of Japan, relations with Latin America and the Caribbean region, and interact with local people.

♦ Ecuador, Working youth

I think it was wonderful that the program was implemented with simultaneous interpretation. Thanks to this, my knowledge of Japan has increased.

4. Voice from Japanese Locals(excerpt)

♦ UCC Holdings, Co., Ltd.

Latin American countries are deeply involved in coffee, and I am very pleased to hear directly from participants from such countries and Japanese students interested in such countries.

♦ Person in charge of cooperating organization

In the group discussion on the subject of Ukiyo-e, I was very impressed that I was able to get to know a point of view that Japanese people would not notice. It was also impressive to see the participants actively communicating with the lecturer.

Juntos!! Japan-Latin America and the Caribbean Exchange Program is led by the Government of Japan and implemented by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan. It was launched in 2015 to promote understanding of Japan in Latin America and the Caribbean region and to deepen the development of relations based on broad mutual understanding.

Juntos!! aims to establish Japan as an important strategic partner in Latin America and the Caribbean region through mutual, repeated and sustained exchanges by proposing the building, strengthening and deepening of relationship between Japan and these regions. Juntos!! program targets university and graduate students who can contribute to strengthening the relationship between Japan and Latin America and the Caribbean region, as well as people in various fields and professions.

In order to strengthen bilateral relations between Japan and Bolivia, I will participate in the program by exchanging experiences and sharing similarities that may exist between the two countries, thereby strengthening technical cooperation with Bolivia and strengthening bonds of friendship with Latin America and the Caribbean countries. Together, we can build a better future of each country.

"Shh ... A moment of silence in front of the screen..."

Following the activities of #Juntos!! Japan-Latin America and the Caribbean Exchange Program, today I had the opportunity to participate in and practice Zazen (Zen meditation) with members from Latin America and the Caribbean region. #Let's move on together.

"Za" means posture, and "Zen" means mindset. You must purely concentrate on "now here." It's just being yourself. It was a great experience!! May 11, 2021 (Twitter)

I participated in another wonderful activity of the #Juntos!! program. Zen meditation is useful and very necessary in times like these.

Minamisanriku es una ciudad localizada en la prefectura de Miyagi, Japón. El 2011 la ciudad fue azotada por el tsunami más poderoso de la historia de Japón. Un terremoto de magnitud 9,0 provocó olas que inundaron más de 200 millas de costa, con consecuencias fatales en 18.500 personas y provocando un desastre nuclear en la planta nuclear de Fukushima que repercutió en todo el mundo. Pocos lugares se vieron tan afectados como Minamisanriku.

Diez años después: Nuevas carreteras. Nuevos ayuntamientos. Nuevos centros comerciales. Las cicatrices están desapareciendo de la costa noreste de Japón a medida que la gente se reconstruye tras el tsunami que arrasó la región hace 10 años.

Pero Minamisanriku ha decidido preservar los recordatorios del desastre del 11 de marzo de 2011, como símbolo de su capacidad de recuperación, para recordar a sus seres queridos fallecidos y como una lección para las generaciones futuras.

Los ciudadanos de Minamisanriku han compartido sus experiencias desde la tragedia del 2011 hasta la reconstrucción de su región , a través del Programa de Intercambio Japón América Latina JUNTOS, demostrando que trabajando unidos por una misma causa se pueden llegar a alcanzar grandes beneficios para la comunidad.

One of the worst natural disasters in Japanese history

Through the "Juntos!" program, I had the opportunity to learn, in a little more detail, about what happened in March 2011 in Minamisanriku Town in Miyagi Prefecture, Japan.

In March 2011, the news of the earthquake that occurred in the Japanese archipelago and the marine accident that accompanied it traveled around the world and was covered by all kinds of foreign media. In Japan, just after the magnitude 9.0 earthquake occurred, a tsunami with a wave height of over 9 meters occurred, destroying everything.

Japanese people were deeply hurt. Roads were broken, cars were thrown into buildings, schools and family homes were devastated, more than 1,200 people were killed, and repairs are said to cost several million yen.

In the face of such a catastrophe, it is important to note Japan's indomitable spirit in rising from the ruins and restoring tsunami-hit areas.

Now, Minamisanriku Town has been restored with new housing, roads and shopping centers, making it look like a new town. People in Minamisanriku Town remember the tsunami as an experience in which people were able to overcome adversity with unity and mutual support.

May 27, 2021 (Facebook)

Minamisanriku is a city located in Miyagi Prefecture. In 2011, it was hit by the largest tsunami in Japanese history. Due to the 9.0 magnitude earthquake, waves washed over more than 200 miles of the coastline and killed 18,500 people. Moreover, the accident at the Fukushima Nuclear Power Station sent ripples throughout the entire world. Few areas suffered as much damage as Minamisanriku Town.

10 years later, new roads, new town hall building and new shopping centers were constructed. In the Tohoku region of Japan, which was devastated by the tsunami 10 years ago, the scars are fading toward reconstruction.

However, Minamisanriku Town decided to preserve the memory of the March 11, 2011 earthquake as a symbol of reconstruction, as a memorial to those who died, and as a lesson for future generations.

Through Juntos!! Japan-Latin America and the Caribbean Exchange Program, people of Minamisanriku Town shared with us their experiences from the 2011 tragedy to the reconstruction of the region. And it became clear that working together for the same purpose will bring a great benefit for a region.

Kenji Endo, who was the deputy mayor of Minamisanriku at the time of the earthquake, and his group exchanged opinions on disaster prevention. Mr. Endo has been involved in the response and recovery of disaster victims as a town official. Minamisanriku town experienced the tsunami of the Chile earthquake in 1960, so the government has taken disaster prevention measures at a very high level. However, in the Great East Japan earthquake, he said, the tsunami was much higher than they had expected, so he felt that a natural disaster was something unexpected.

In response, one question, "A tsunami can occur in Costa Rica. What can the government do in case of a tsunami?" was raised. In response, Mr. Endo says it is important to inform the public of the disaster risk in the area using hazard maps and so on. Mr. Endo felt that there were many things that could not be prevented by the power of the administration, and that the administration itself could be struck by disasters, and that it was important for all residents to understand the disaster risk they were living in and to be conscious of protecting their own lives. Other questions covered specific areas such as "What technologies are beina used disseminate disaster prevention messages?" and there was a lively opinion exchange throughout the session.

Participants commented, "I was very impressed by the experience of the people in the disaster-stricken area and was able to gain a lot of motivation." and "Because of the coronavirus, we were not able to have face-to-face interactions, but after the earthquake, I felt that just by connecting with people who are alive and talking about our experiences, the strength to unite and bond is strengthened, and a sense of empathy is born."

UCC Holdings (HD, Chuo-ku, Kobe) is focusing on online seminars for students to familiarize them with activities related to the SDGs through coffee.

The seminars aim to disseminate the industry's efforts for SDGs and deepen understanding among young people who will lead the next generation. (Omitted) On the 9th, the Japan International Cooperation Center (JICE) implemented the program as an international exchange program commissioned by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Simultaneous interpretation was offered in English and Spanish. In addition to Japanese students, 25 people, such as Ministry of Foreign Affairs employees and media workers, from 7 Latin American countries participated.

Ms. Chie Ganno (31 years old), an employee of UCC, introduced general knowledge of coffee and the efforts to solve poverty and environmental problems in producing countries with quizzes and videos. She appealed, "I want to contribute to the development of the coffee industry and make the world smile." The participants asked questions, reported on circumstances of local coffee cultivation and exchanged their impressions, etc.

6. Presentation of action plan at final reporting session

Action plan as the group

Title:

"Actions for Sustainable Environment in Japan" Subtitle:

"Japan, the most advanced country in Asia in terms of SDGs implementation"

Based on the content of group study which is consisted of three parts, we presented an action plan assigned to us.

In light of the theme given to the South American group in the Juntos!! program, we have studied the examples of SDGs implemented by the public and private sectors in Japan. And based on this study, we individually prepared and introduced an action plan regarding activities to be implemented by each of us in respective home country within the next three months.

Content of the group study:

- Case studies of sustainable environmental initiatives by Japan's leading companies (Toyota, Panasonic and Sony)
- 2) Method of treating and utilizing solid waste
- 3) Introducing the spirit of "Mottainai"

Objetivos medioambientales de Toyota

➤ Toyota ha desarrollado una ambiciosa serie de objetivos que serán alcanzados hasta el 2050, año hasta el cual se ha planificado reducir el promedio global de emisiones de CO₂ de vehículos nuevos un 90% con respecto al 2010.

Individual action plan

Importancia del Reciclaje en Japón

▶ Japón cuenta con una clara legislación ambiental, que hasta cierto punto ha obligado a los diferentes actores a tomar acciones para la protección y recuperación del medio ambiente, haciendo un uso responsable de los recursos y dando tratamiento apropiado a los residuos sólidos y líquidos. Los gobiernos locales con el apoyo del gobierno central hacen inversiones impresionantes para el desarrollo de tecnología para la disposición final de residuos, reciclaje, la reutilización de los residuos tanto sólidos como líquidos.

Mottainai, la filosofía del residuo cero

- Japón es el segundo productor mundial de residuos plásticos per cápita, después de Estados Unidos, por lo tanto, se ha propuesto reducir su producción de este tipo de residuos en un 25 % para 2030, y llegar a reciclar o reutilizar por completo todos esos desechos, incluidos componentes usados en electrodomésticos y automóviles, para 2035.
- ► En términos formales 'Mottainai' es un adjetivo que sirve para expresar un estado negativo o de pena cuando un objeto o recurso no se utiliza suficientemente, su significado seria similar a ¡que desperdico! o ¡que pena! cuando se echa a perder algo útil y valioso, como el tiempo o la comida.

"Dissemination of Japanese technological development"

■ Why:

I want to spread information about Japan's technological progress by using my SNS.

■ When:

April-June 2022

Who (Who will do it?):
Myself

■ Who (To whom?):

I will deliver information widely from friends to friends' friends as well as general users of SNS without narrowing the target.

- What (What are you planning to do?):I will post photos, videos, and comments.
- How:

I will use digital information to disseminate information in an interactive manner so that Internet users will be interested.

【In case of Paraguay, Working youth】
"Success of food and cultural diplomacy in Asuncion"

■ Why:

Food is very important in Paraguay. You can get a sense of satisfaction from delicious food, and if it is foreign food, you will be even more impressed. As a means of giving shape to a foreign culture adapted to a country, food is a very effective means. Food has been disseminated visually for many years through television, movies and animation.

■ When:

From March 10 to April 15

■ Who (Who will do it?):

Myself

■ Who (To whom?):

Paraguayan citizens, co-workers, foreign colleagues, family members, and friends
Content and method of activities: I will introduce Japanese restaurants and menus through SNS. At the same time, I will personally communicate the food culture to the target people after taking measures against the new coronavirus infection set by the national government.

[In case of Bolivia, Working youth]

"Activities to disseminate the connection between Japan and Bolivia in the economic, social and environmental fields"

■ Why:

To make widely known the characteristics of the cooperative relationship between Japan and Bolivia in the economic, social and environmental field through exchanging experiences between the two countries.
