

Juntos!! Online Alumni Event 2020 Implementation Report

1. Overview

An online alumni event was held on December 10, 2020 for 21 alumni that had participated in the Japan's Friendship Ties Programs, Juntos!! (Latin America and the Caribbean) conducted in 2018 and 2019. The event began with remarks by the Jamaican Ambassador to Japan and representatives of the Latin American Faculty of Social Sciences (FLACSO), the sponsor of the program, followed by presentations by two ex-participants of the program. The presentations were given in English by two Juntos!! ex-participants on their memories of the program, and how their experiences in the program had influenced their lives since, and what activities they are currently involved in. The participants were then divided into small groups to share their experiences in the program and to discuss what they can do as Juntos!! alumni to strengthen relations between Japan and Latin America during the pandemic. The participants expressed their desire to "promote cultural exchange, eco-tourism, and economic cooperation between Japan and Latin American countries while listening to the voices of the younger generation," and "learn from each other's experiences in dealing with COVID-19, natural disasters, and risk management in Japan and the participating countries." This dialogue renewed their motivation to build strong ties among alumni.

8. Voice from Participants(abstract)

- It seemed to me that the organization was excellent, the chosen theme reflects the priorities that we are currently experiencing and I liked that a lot because it is a global issue that has impacted all regions on different scales and at the Latin American level, it is very helpful to have such important support as that of the Japanese government that has a long history in their governmental system and that can help us a lot to have new knowledge to propose improvements in different areas that today are fragile according to the particularity of each country. (Participant from Panama)
- The event was a great opportunity to interact with the participants of other groups and to see again some of the participants of my group. It was very interesting to know about other experiences and ideas to continue working. (Participant from Panama)
- Online meeting is a good idea to connect people from all over the world, especially during a pandemic. I was happy to meet more people with the same interest as mine. (Participant from Brazil)
