Definition and Rationale

Definition

The routine vaccines coverage

Concepts

The term “routine vaccines” used in this indicator means the vaccination that is defined by the Immunization Act.

Rationale and Interpretation:

This method refers to the report that is investigated every year and defined by the Statistics Act for the measures of the public health services and health promotion services, therefore it is considered to be suitable for the measurement of indicators in terms of continuity and reliability.

Data Sources and Collection Method

Report on Regional Public Health Services and Health Promotion Services

Method of Computation and Other Methodological Considerations

Computation Method

The number of the people given the vaccines divided by the number of the target people in the year.

○ Comments and limitations

The number of the target people is not real number but presumption number. Therefore, the routine vaccines coverage can be possible to exceed 100 percentage.
